City to Sell Bonds for Plant Improvements

Hope City Council last night passed an ordinance calling for sale of water and electrical revenue bonds in the sum of $80,000 with which to enlarge and improve output of the local municipal plant.

The bonds will be offered to the company bidding in the lowest interest rate and are scheduled to mature in 1960.

The city has a plan already in effect to improve and enlarge the water and light plant and facilities. The money derived from the sale of revenue bonds will be used for this expansion program.

Application of Hope Basket Co. to relocate its sawmill was approved. The council also to aid the Chamber of Commerce in its projects.

B. L. Rettig asked the council to reconsider amount now charged for rent on the municipal airport. He said the airport had not been paying off for some time. The matter was turned over to the airport committee.

The group also passed an ordinance assessing benefits and designating annual 20 per cent payments for Street Improvement District No. 17.

Calvin Coleman, representing the Negro Legion baseball team asked permission to schedule night games at the Negro City park. He was referred to the park committee for a satisfactory solution.

A motion was made to install an electrical line to the Union Chapel Community as soon as possible.

Each state will get a flat 60,000 grant with which to begin.

Congress also increased the grant to states for services to crippled children from $7,500,000 to $12 million for the present fiscal year, and $15 million a year thereafter.

In this case, too, each state will get a basic $60,000.

$13 Billion Now For Social Security Trust Fund

Summing up all changes made in Social Security law by congress this year, these highlights may be presented.

Social Security collections from payrolls during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1950, were approximately $2,500,000,000. They were paid in by some 35 million insured workers and their employers.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1951, with an additional 10 million people being brought into the system workers and self-employed people being brought into the system, collections will be about $3 billion.

All this money will go into the huge Social Security trust fund — now totaling over $13 billion — from which benefits will be paid as they become due.

Present benefit payments from this trust fund are at the rate of $1 billion a year in round numbers. They are expected to rise to $2 billion for the calendar year 1951 under the new law.

In addition, grants to the states from the U. S. Treasury's general receipts — not from the Social Security trust funds — are expected to increase from $1,146,000,000 this year to an estimated $1,346,000,000 next year.

There is strong sentiment for putting the whole business on a pay-as-it-goes basis. That is why provision has been made for stepping up the rate of contributions until 1970.

If this doesn't provide enough money to keep the Social Security system solvent, there are several alternatives:

1. Cut down the benefits.

2. Increase the contribution rates.

3. Increase the base amount of annual wage on which contributions could be collected from the present $3600 to say, $4800.

4. Make up the deficit from general tax collections.

Arkansas Young Democrats Plan Meeting

Little Rock, Sept. 6 — (P) — The young Democrats of Arkansas are planning a banquet here Sept. 2 closing day of the state democratic convention.

President Douglas Bradley of Jonesboro said an "outstanding speaker" would be obtained for the dinner, planned to honor members of the general assembly and the states constitutional officers.

The organization will conduct its customary campaign to encourage all prospective voters to pay their poll taxes. Oct. 1 is deadline for poll tax payment, entitling voting in elections to Oct. 1, 1951.

A house in Bennett addition was damaged considerably by fire last night about 10:30 before firemen could extinguish the blaze. The fire was confined to the inside. Origin was not determined.

Expect Russia to Make Her 44th Veto

Lake Success, Sept. 6 (P) — Russia is expected to cast her 44th veto today to prevent security council adoption of an American resolution urging all countries not to help the North Korean aggressors.

Russia's Jakob A. Malik has insisted since he returned to the council Aug. 1 that the U. S. resolution is merely designed to "hide and justify American aggression in Korea."

He returned to that theme at yesterday's stormy session declaring that U. S. intervention is "the real threat to international peace and security." The North Koreans, he insisted, are "fighting a just war against the foreign invaders."

Malik's bitter, 45-minute attack on the U. S. came an hour after American Delegate Warren R. Austin officially notified the council that United Nations forces had not recovered the body of a man identified by his papers as a Russian lieutenant.

Malik dismissed the reported air fight as "one of a series of provocations by Gen. MacArthur and the war department" intended to spread of the Korean war.

He implied that the U. S. manufactured the happening by saying "the sea was chosen to conceal the sharp corners of the incident."

Diplomats were surprised that Malik waited an hour after Austin reported before making his reply, and then spoke of the shooting so briefly and in such comparatively mild tones.

They noticed that he left the council chamber before speaking and speculated that he went outside to receive his instructions from Moscow on how to deal with the incident.

Truman's Crack at Marines Brings Furore

Washington, Sept. 6 — (P) — President Truman is considering sending a letter to the marine corps league in an effort to stem the furore and bitterness arising from his cracks about the marine corps.

It was learned today that Mr. Truman is disturbed by the reaction to his assertions that the marines are the "navy's police force" and have "a propaganda machine that is almost equal to Stalin's."

He conferred at length about it with members of the White House staff this morning.

Protests were pouring in to his office over his statement, made in a letter to a congressman who had suggested that the marines have representation on the armed forces joint chiefs of staff.

It was learned that the White House meeting discussed the advisability of a letter. Some of Mr. Truman's staff urged a blanket apology to the marines.

The marine corps league opened its annual meeting in Washington today. Rank and file members were hopping mad at Mr. Truman. Some talked of throwing him out of membership in the league.

But national officers were trying to hush the whole thing up.

National Commander Clay Nixon, who was demanding yesterday that the President apologize, told reporters today that he was considering it "a closed issue."

Nixon said a resolution had been proposed to "throw the President out of the league, and things of that sort," but that he would try to quash anything along that line.

The President chose an odd time to write to a Republican congressman chiding a service around which has grown something akin to legend.

It came in an election year, on the eve of a convention of the marine corps league, in the midst of a war in which the marines are fighting. Also, the letter incident which had showed up sharp division between an American thinking and that by some high military officials.

The President's comment about marine "propaganda" was contained in his answer to a request by Rep. McDonough (R-Calif) for equal representation of the ma-

Payrolls in Hempstead Show a Sizeable Increase During First Three Months of 1950

Covered payrolls in Hempstead county showed increase during the first three months of 1950 over the same period in 1949.

Employers in the county coerced by the Arkansas Employment Security law paid out a total of $1,027,32 in wages during the period. These wages were paid to 2,400 covered workers.

The Hope office of the Employment Security Division reported that this was an increase of $71,922 in payrolls but an employment loss of 18 workers from last year.

The four county area total payrolls amounted to $2,530,854 as against $2,373,127 in 1949. Covered employment numbered 6,050 as compared with 6,513 the same period last year.

Teddy M. Jones, local office manager, said that Howard and Neada counties also showed increased pay rolls for the quarter but also showed slight losses in employment. He explained that this was due primarily to the passage of the federal minimum wage and hour law.

Nevada, payroll, $601,242; employment, 1,263 as compared with 1949's $597,770 and 1,308. Howard, 1,378 as against $583,800 and 1,481 last year.

The Hope area's other county, Lafayette, showed losses in both employment and payrolls. Its 1950 first quarter payroll amounted to $416,183 as against $736,117 in 1949. Employment in the county was off by 293 from 1,306 down to 1,013.

Mr. Jones, reported on the area office activities for the first half of the year, pointed out that the local area employers hired 1,240 workers through the local employment office. In the professional, technical, clerical, sales, skilled and unskilled categories. Of the number placed, 287 were veterans and 93 physically handicapped.

Indicating a return to a more normal employment situation in the Hope area, Mr. Jones explained that the number of initial claims for unemployment insurance benefits for the month of August numbered only 94 as against 144 for the same month of 1949.

For the first six months of the year, Mr. Jones said, the Employment Security Division paid to Hope area eligible unemployed persons a total of $236,659 for 14,892 weeks of unemployment.

"These payments," he said, "went largely into the community stores of the Hope area for food, to pay the rent and utilities, and other necessities of life, which had

I looked up and found myself staring into the deep brown eyes of a cow.

I answered "moo," and the cow, with an incredible wind, turned back to her work—munching grass.

More and more South Korean troops are going to war. You hear them march through the streets at night—a slow, shuffling and muffled march.

Last night a long column shuffled by, headed for the front. They looked as young and as determined as many GIs. They did not look as rugged as American marines or doughboys.

But they looked like they wanted to fight. And they were headed for the fighting.

Opponents of Red Bill Get Busy

Washington, Sept. 6 (AP) — Senate opponents of a Communist registration bill hurriedly worked on a substitute today while one of them predicted a presidential veto if congress passes the original measure.

Senator Kilgore (D-Wy.) a leader among those fighting the catch-all anti-subversives bill now before the senate, told reporters he expected work will be completed shortly on a substitute calling for registration of Communists in case of war or other emergency. He said about 10 senators are helping draft it.

At the same time Kilgore predicted a certain veto if congress should pass the bill today, said Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) to require the registration of Communists and Communist front organizations.

The registration feature is the most hotly disputed part of this measure which also would tighten home-front defenses against spies and saboteurs and revise immigration laws to make it easier to get rid of subversive aliens.

A separate Communist registration bill already passed by the house.

McCarran, chairman of the senate judiciary committee, scoffed at Kilgore's talk of a veto by President Truman.

He said it was the usual prediction of opponents and called it "scarcrow." He added that the bill is "too obviously needed that it is impossible to conceive of any one having the temerity to veto it."

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) also told a reporter there would be no reason to veto it. Along with Senators — Mundt (R-SD) and Olin Johnston (D-SC) Ferguson was the author of a Communist registration bill which McCarran wrapped into his catch all legislation.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) also told a reporter there would be no reason to veto it. Along with Senators — Mundt (R-SD) and Olin Johnston (D-SC) Ferguson was the author of a Communist registration bill which McCarran wrapped into his catch all legislation.

McCarran, chairman of the senate judiciary committee, scoffed at Kilgore's talk of a veto by President Truman.

He said it was the usual prediction of opponents and called it "scarcrow." He added that the bill is "too obviously needed that it is impossible to conceive of any one having the temerity to veto it."

DOROTHY DIX Rescued Marriage

Dear Dorothy Dix: I was much interested in the letter the woman wrote you about being lonely and forlorn because her husband had outgrown her. My case was similar to hers. I had no education. I disliked to read and had a bad inferiority complex. When I realized the situation between my husband and myself I lamented and resorted to tears, but that gained me nothing. Then I resolved to do my best to bring myself as near as possible to my husband's standards. I compelled myself to read. I forced myself to mix with people. I took dancing lessons. I learned how the principal outdoor games were played. I regained my looks by physical exercise and diet. It was hard work, but I took years before I really gained recognition, but today I can meet my husband's friends with ease. We can discuss subjects of interest to both. We are companions. But I'm still struggling on, trying to keep up with him.

A WIFE WHO WON OUT

Answer: There would not be so many divorces nor so many lachrymose, neglected wives if more women had the intelligence and determination of this woman.

She saw that her marriage was going on the rocks, but instead of beating on her breast and lamenting over the perfidy of husbands, as most wives do under similar circumstances, she got busy and saved it. And that is what the great majority of other wives could do when they see the same danger ahead of them, if they were only willing to take the trouble and make the sacrifices to do it.

Don't Blame Selves

Most wives who lose their husbands' affections, as the phrase goes, contend that it was not of God, so to speak. It takes more character than the average woman possesses to do as this correspondent did and recognize that if she is losing her husband it is because she no longer meets all of his requirements in a wife, and to go deliberately to work to make herself over to his taste. But she did it and she won out. And any wife who will follow her example can attain the same results nine times out of ten. For the wife always has the advantage over any other woman, that she was her husband's first love, that he is bound to her by a thousand ties of association and habit and duty, that the hands of little children hold them together, and all the powers of convention and society fight on her side.

Dear Miss Dix: I have three little boys, the oldest 6, who are simply driving me frantic. They are into every sort of mischief and I can't control them at all. They never obey me without a threat of punishment. People advise me to whip them soundly, but must I go through life flogging them and leave scars on their minds as well as their bodies?

MRS. R. P. R.

Answer: What nits your children mostly is that they are little boys and they are just following the natural impulse of the young human animal. Every mother who has three little boys under 6 is frantic unless she has a philosophical enough disposition to just accept this phase of childhood as something that they will outgrow.

Of course, it is a serious matter for children not to obey their mother. It saves people much trouble in later life to have had a respect for authority inculcated in them in their youth. You should have started in the cradle to form the habit of obedience in your children. Now you can only do it by being firm with them. Don't let them do a thing one time and refuse to let them do it another time.

But don't beat your children. Corporal punishment seldom does any good. You must rule your children by intelligence and not by fear.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have been married a little more than four years to a woman I love better than anyone else on earth. She has been a true wife to me and we have been very happy together. But a few days ago she told me that there had been another man in her life before we were married. The other man had fooled her under promise of marriage. She has offered me my freedom of I want it. I feel like taking revenge on the man who wronged her. What shall I do?

WORRIED HUSBAND

Answer: Forget it. You are married to a woman you love and who is a good woman and a good wife. Thank Heaven for her and bury the memory of her one little sin so far down in your mind that it will never come up. Her mistake has been in falling for and thus poisoning your mind against her.

As for your idea of revenge on the scoundrel who abused your wife's trust in him, forget that, too. You would only blazon to the world something that it will never know otherwise, and get yourself into trouble. Revenge is a boomerang that annihilates those who throw it.

Probers to Look Into Chapman Case

Washington, Sept. 6 (AP) — A charge that Secretary of Interior Oscar L. Chapman was once closely allied with "the Russian Soviet cause" appeared today for an early senate investigation.

Senator Schoeppel (R-Kas) made the accusation in a senate speech last night. He said the cabinet officer associated with Communist front groups and may have left them only "to preserve his official position."

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) announced he would order an immediate inquiry by the senate interior committee he heads. Chapman, he added, is "anxious" to testify and Schoeppel will be invited to attend.

"We'll let the chips fall where they may," O'Mahoney said. Democratic senators had termed Chapman's record "is replete" with "references which show conclusively the strong and close personal alliance between the Russian Soviet cause and the present secretary of interior."

O'Mahoney said Schoeppel's charges were similar to ones checked in 1948 by a house labor subcommittee which, he said, gave Chapman "a clean bill."

He said he favors statehood for both Alaska and Hawaii "but not as adjuncts of the department of interior. I do not want to wake up and find a so-called American Quisling doing a job that might be serving the purposes of Soviet Russia."

He accused Alaskan Governor Ernest Gruening and Delegate E. L. Bartlett, who represents the territory in congress, of having been instrumental in hiring to lobby for Alaska statehood a former public relations counsel for Communist Poland. He identified the lobbyist as John Hampton Rando, who he said, was a registered "agent of the Kremlin via Warsaw" for three years before taking the Alaskan job.

Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.) said he would order an immediate inquiry by the senate interior committee he heads. Chapman, he added, is "anxious" to testify and Schoeppel will be invited to attend.

Sen. McCarran Easy Winner in Nevada

Renov, Sept. 6 (AP) — Without even coming home to campaign, Sen. Pat McCarran swamped his young challenger in Nevada's Democratic primary election.

McCarran, who is 74 and has been in the senate since 1933, ran away from George Franklin, Jr., 34-year-old Las Vegas attorney.

dolph Feltus who he said, was a registered "agent of the Kremlin via Warsaw" for three years before taking the Alaskan job.

Hempstead County, Arkansas, is the owner of a municipal waterworks system and likewise a municipal electric light and power system, which are operated as one plant, and the City Council of said City (hereinafter sometimes called the "Council") has ascertained and determined that there exists an immediate and urgent need to improve, extend and enlarge the said ments and has determined that the

NOW THEREFORE BE IT OR-

THE FORMER MISS FREY

THE STORY: Among the guests at a party given by the wealthy Gil Summerfield in Bermuda is the former Edith Frey, now married to Peter Flood, whose star as a playright rose and set with one Broadway production. Peter is trying to write more plays, but to no avail. He is not being very successful at it. George has it that Edith's father, though old Caroline Frey, has never forgiven his daughter's abandonment because he suspected that Peter was a fortune hunter. Edith tries unsuccessfully to persuade her husband to leave the party so that he can work the next day, but when he refuses she starts to go alone. Summerfield offers her the use of his speedboat to ride across the sound and on a sudden impulse decides to see her home.

III
FRED turned to Gil Summerfield, surprised look on her face. "But Gil! You can't leave your own party."
"My party," said Gil imperturbably, "will take care of itself. Besides, I'll only be gone a few minutes."
The boat shot away, leaving a broad white catenary across the face of the water. Edith spoke. "I know what you're thinking, Gil. That I ordered Pete home and he turned me down. Now I'm going myself to try to save face. But I really do have a headache."
"I never doubted it," Gil said, sincerely. Then: "Mind if I ask you something, Edith?"
"Not at all."
"Well, it's none of my business, of course, but—what's the matter with Peter Flood?"
She looked at him quickly. "Just why do you ask that, Gil?"
"Because," Summerfield said, "I simply can't understand a man who's done something good, like Peter's play, sort of giving out. He just drew a breath—had that much on the ball, I'd see that I didn't lose it."
"Why, Gil? There was astonishment in Edith's voice. "You actually sound envious."

"Perhaps I am. It would be nice to do something in this world."
"And I thought," Edith said, "that you were just a playboy."
"Oh, I am," said Gil, a little bitterly. "But I don't enjoy it much."
"Didn't you used to paint?"
"Dabble at it, yes. But I haven't any real ability."
"You probably mean," Edith said, "that you haven't any real incentive."
"Maybe. But, in my way, I do try to do things. I get thwarted, though. For instance," he hesitated—"keep this under your hat, Edith. But I went to New York recently and tried to get into an airline as a pilot. Flying planes is about all I can do that's of any use. But they turned me down cold because of this gimpy leg of mine. Which, queerly enough, came from a plane crash in the war."
Edith was silent a moment. "Shall I tell you what's wrong with Pete?" she asked, at last.
"If you like."
"It won't be easy," Edith said. "But you are an old friend. Very confidentially, Gil, Peter feels sold down the river."
Gil shook his head. "I don't get it."
"My father was perfectly right about Peter. But I was stary-eyed and couldn't see it. Peter was a fortune hunter, Gil."
"Look," said Gil, uncomfortably, "you don't have to go on."
"Can't you see that I want to tell somebody? Somebody I can trust? It may sound awfully disloyal, but I've kept it to myself a long time. Now I'm spilling over. Peter does feel sold out. He married money, but he didn't know it. So he's been sulking. For three years. And he's laid down on his own job. He doesn't seem able to work. And he spends—this is rather humiliating—a lot of time bemoaning his fate."

"Gil let an interval go, then said: "Want my advice?"
"No," said Edith. "I just wanted to tell somebody."
"My advice would be," he disregarded her, "to break it up. Peter didn't play fair in the first place."
Edith bit her lip. "Can't be done. I made a bargain, so I'll stick by it."
The dusky boatman shut off his motor. They glided silently up to a dock.
"I'll walk to the cottage with you," Gil offered.
On the way, Edith pressed his arm. "You'll forget that I broke down and talked tonight, Gil?"
He inclined his dark head. "I'll forget to tell anyone else, anyhow."

THE cottage stood on a little hill. Pink oleander bushes clustered about it. Moonlight rippled along its low whitewashed roof, sharply outlined the two papaw trees, straight as ramrods, one at either side of the entrance.
"Come in for a drink?" Edith asked at the door.
"Just a quickie, I'll have to get back soon."
Edith opened the door, lit a light in the small vestibule. A telegram lay on the floor and she picked it up.
"Good news from Pete's agent, I hope," she began. "He certainly needs it."
She tore open the envelope and glanced at the lines of the telegram. Her eyes halted abruptly and traveled over the wording again. Then she stopped again and stared at the piece of paper.
The wire was from her brother Jeff. It said:
"Father critically ill. Come at once."
White-faced and silent, she handed it to Gil. He read it, then put an impulsive arm around her shoulders.
"Edith, if there's the slightest thing I can do . . ."
She steadied herself. "There is one thing. Go back and collect Pete. Tell him that I'm flying home, tomorrow."

Gough Hurls Hope Over Murfreesboro

Charles Gough hurls a brilliant two hit shutout over the power hitting packed Murfreesboro Red Sox last night at Legion Field to give the Hope Legionnaires a 6-0 victory in the first game of the title series between the Sox and the Legionnaires for the Southwest Arkansas League championship.

The Red Sox play host to the Legionnaires at Murfreesboro tonight in the second game of their playoff series. Manager Gilson Ross will probably call on Denville Ross to go against the regular season fourth placers this evening. Ross in the playoff shut out the Waldo Giants 4-0 and tonight will be shooting for his eighth victory against four setbacks. The Sox will probably rely on either Razz Caldwell or Dale Richardson in the second go 'round of the title fight.

Last night Gough faced only 29 men in registering his eleventh win in Southwest League play. It was Gough's second victory in the play-off. The Sox garnered only two base hits off Charlie, both singles. Willie Williams knocked one in the fifth and Jack Crawley, relief catcher, banged a safety in the top of the ninth. Both were ground ball singles one through the middle into center field and the other between short and third.

Gough was amazingly strong for the first six innings. In the top of the stretch square of Hope right under walked two Red Sox. He also issued free passes in the eighth and ninth. Gough was pulled out of the hole every time he got behind the eighth ball by six sleek double play by his inner defense. The Hope infield was sparked by one of Leroy Riding best defensive displays of the year. He made two fine stops from his short stop post.

The Legionnaires were aided offensively by loose play in the field by the Sox and the wildness of Whit Stevenson, the losing pitcher who went the route for Murfreesboro. Hope got two unearned runs in the bottom of the first inning. Hope got another brace of runs in the second without a single hit. Gary Anderson batted in Hope's only two earned runs. In the third Gary singled to score Jack Bell from second. In the seventh Anderson duplicated the feat — again according Bell from second.

Gough struck out five and walked four. Stevenson struck out five and walked nine. It was Stevenson's fourth loss against five wins.

Hurricane Leaves 2 Dead in Florida

Miami, Fla., Sept. 6 — (AP)— Two persons were dead and more than 400 homeless today in the wake of a tricky gulf hurricane that still loitered in the Tampa bay area.

The storm was drifting slowly southward at about four miles per hour, apparently losing some of its force after lashing to middle Florida gulf coast with 125-mile-an-hour winds.

It had doubled back after stalling all day yesterday in the Cedar key area where its greatest damage was reported. Winds near the center were estimated at 70 to 75 miles per hour with gusts even higher.

Squalls covered most of northern and central Florida.
Aid was rushed to the stricken Cedar key where Florida Highway Patrol Capt. Olin Hill estimated between 400 and 500 were homeless. A convoy of six trucks left Turner field at Albany, Ga., with C and K ratings for 800 persons.

One tank truck carried a supply of water and others hauled 100 cots and 250 blankets. A doctor and three medical corpsmen were in the convoy, sent by third army headquarters in Atlanta.
The Red Cross and a national guard rushed in emergency food, fresh milk and drinking water from Gainesville, 52 miles to the northeast.

The hurricane thrashed Cedar Key with winds estimated up to 125 miles per hour throughout the day. All 200 buildings in the community were damaged and 75 per cent of them were wrecked.

The 1950 Michigan State track team smashed 12 varsity records during the season, seven indoor and five outdoor.
